

Schedule:

Saturday: 10:00 - 6:00
Wednesday: 9:00 - 1:00
Friday: 9:00 - 3:00
Other days: 9:00 - 5:00

Price:

5 day session: $675.00
7 day session: $850.00
3 months prior: may deduct $75
3 sessions 3 months prior for 7 day: $2100; 5 day: $1575
There is no daily rate.

Includes breakfast, lunch and NEHA membership!

Accommodations:

Stay in the monastery for $50 per night, dinner included

St. Benedict's Abbey:

Located 1 hour west of Boston on 75 bucolic acres near beautiful Mt. Wachusett. Attendance of services in Gregorian chant is an optional delight.

REGISTRATION:

Name: _____ Title: _____

Address: _____

City, State, Zip: _____

Phone: O: _____ H: _____

E-mail: _____

Make checks payable to NEHA and send to address below

Cancellation and Refund Policy:

Cancellations in writing up until two weeks before the event will be charged $50. After this a refund of 50% will be made.

Accredited by the CHE for 38 hours per seminar

www.mangialavori.com
For books and more information

New England Homeopathic Academy
24 Minot Avenue, Acton, MA 01720
phone: (978) 635-0605; email: bwod@igc.org

NEHA is a 501(c)3 membership organization committed to fostering community among homeopaths and providing affordable homeopathic education

Massimo Mangialavori

A New Series of Seminars

Accurately Differentiating
Homeopathic Remedies and Families
For Core Issues in Human Beings

Presentation of the course

This freshly designed course will present a system to differentiate remedies for common issues we encounter in our patients. As with all of Massimo's teaching, the goal is understanding instead of memorizing; we start that process by examining the language of the body and then emotions and their psychosomatic expressions. This course will guide you to understand how remedies act in our lives from the beginning of life through the most important steps of our development. This course is based on the essential and significant issues of existence and developmental steps of all human life.

In this course Massimo Mangialavori will systematically examine materia medica based on his clinical experience and research over the last 20 years. In previous seminars we explored one family at a time; in these sessions we will cover several themes, over 30 families of remedies and scores of remedies to enable us to clearly differentiate them.

Our main goal is to study remedies in a precise manner in order to improve the accuracy of our prescription. We start with 40 of the most important polycrystals and will differentiate and compare them with others, greatly expanding our palette of similar remedies. Particular attention will be paid to the subtle differences between remedies that are often confused. We will consider the homeopathic families to which they belong as well as other families representative of the themes that we are studying.

Massimo's criteria for a remedy to be included in a specific homeopathic family is particularly well thought out. His definition of a homeopathic family does not necessarily follow the botanical family, but rather is a grouping according to a set of related "fundamental themes." Fundamental themes are concepts you must observe in your patient to aid you in successfully, accurately, and deeply prescribing a remedy. Remedies can be included or excluded from a family according to their fundamental themes; Zincum phosphoricum for instance is included in Massimo's Snake-like family. Lyssinum and Gallic acid are included in his Belladonna-like family even though they are not Solanaceae.

Cured clinical cases provide the most reliable basis for the accurate understanding and prescription of our medicines. Cases will be distilled to provide more opportunity to study how different themes can be distinguished within different homeopathic families and their representative remedies. By presenting situations similar to what we see in our daily practice, this training will deepen our understanding of our patients by individualizing the central themes of his or her strategy and relate this to the corresponding remedy.

This course will pursue a unified approach divided into 7 meetings, 2 meetings per year. Although it is possible to participate in a single seminar, we strongly advise those interested to take part in the entire cycle. In each session the material will be covered in a didactic manner during the first five days. Illustrative cases will be explored in the remaining two days to further deepen your understanding. Students may choose to come for 5 or 7 days.

LANGUAGE OF THE CORPUS

October 14-20, 2006

Pains

Exploring the experience of pain: burning, soreness, constrictive, explosive, tearing, penetrating, breaking, crushing, paralyzing, voluptuous. Radiation of pain: migration, wandering, localization, substitution, etc. Adaptation of suffering: hypo or hyperesthesia; heroism, avoidance, acquiescence, isolation, request for support and help. Sensation: from hyperesthesia to anesthesia, hypo/hyper sensibility, hypo/hyper excitability.

Numerous homeopathic families and remedies characteristic of the particular types of suffering will be discussed.

April 28-May 4, 2007

Perceptions

Size: swelling, obesity, lean, underweight. Posture and finding your support. Weakness and strength. Fullness and emptiness. The Corpus in Space: awkwardness, disturbance of equilibrium, fear of heights, open space, claustrophobia.

Salts of Arsenicum and similars

Rhus tox and similars

Chamomilla and similars

Bryonia and similars; Aconite and similars

The homeopathic family of the Leguminosae

Hysterical remedies from rubrics in the repertory

October 13-19, 2007

Some Vital Organic Functions:

Respiration, Digestion and Assimilation

Acids and salts of carbon

China and similars

The homeopathic families of Rutaceae

Labiatae and Salts of Magnesium

Nux vomica and similars

Salts of zincum

The homeopathic family of the Liliaceae

PASSAGES

April 26 - May 2, 2008

Relation With Time And Space:

Incarnation, birth and development. Identity and the process of individualization. Living in an "altered" world. Developmental stages: infancy to adolescence, maturity, and senility. Puer and senex: the infantile personality, problems of maturation and realization. Retardation and learning disabilities. Senility: inability, paralysis, sense of uselessness. The end of life and the preparation for the last passage. The theme of death: awareness, obsession, fears and phobias.

The homeopathic family of the Coniferae

Salts of carbon

Salts of kali and ammonium

SELF ESTEEM AND AFFECTION

October 18-24, 2008

Self Worth

Fear of failure and not achieving. Difficulty in social relationships: shyness, anticipation, cowardice, avoidance. Strategies of compensation and decompensation: hyper/hypo-activity in work, occupation, physical and mental exertion, creativity, retirement, catatonia. Omnipotence and Idealization. Money and power. Narcissistic injuries and problems of identity. Aggression and narcissistic destructiveness. Hope and desperation. Depression and suicidal tendency.

The homeopathic family of the Labiatae

Noble metals,

alchemical metals & similars

Some insects

Reptiles and

similars

Lycopodium and

similars

Sulphur and similars

The homeopathic

family of the Compositae

October 17-23, 2009

Dualism, Ambivalence and Schism

Different organizations of personality. Common modalities of compensation and decompensation. Defense strategies and strategies of adaptation. Schizophrenia, paranoia, severe depression, borderline personality, neurosis, hysteria and obsession. Tendency to organization or disorganization. Degenerative and destructive diseases. Degenerative disease related with the development or destruction of the self.

RELATIONSHIPS

April 25 - May 1, 2009

Different Temperaments & Difficulties in Relating

The mother-child relationship and different stages of development. Attachment and detachment. Dependence and independence. Ambivalence in support, enmeshment and indifference. Symbiosis, support and autonomy. The development of self-confidence in the child in relation to the theme of support. Sense of being forsaken, loss and grief. Selflessness to a fault. Avoidance. Ego-centrism, narcissism, and autism. Dominance and submission. Seduction, jealousy and possession. Power and destructiveness in relationships.

The salts of Calcium, Natrum and Halogens; Sea remedies

The salts of Aluminum, Magnesium, Silica Barium, Ammonium

The homeopathic family of the Cactaceae Pulsatilla and similars

The homeopathic family of Drugs

The homeopathic family of Rosaceae

Phosphorous and similars

Staphysagria, Ignatia, Chelidonium and similars

Some spiders

The homeopathic family of Umbelliferae

The homeopathic family of Solanaceae

The homeopathic family of Euphorbiaceae

Some parasites

Phytolacca and similars

Some acids